Moral : Hard work opens the doors of success.

Once there lived a farmer. He had a barren piece of land. He had three sons. They were very lazy. One day, the farmer called his three sons. He told them, 'My dear sons, my days are limited. I may pass away at any time. I want to tell you a secret. I had buried a pot of gold coins somewhere in the land. But, I forgot where it is. It is your duty to dig the ground and find out the pot of gold.”

The farmer passed away. After sometime, the sons had nothing for their livelihood. One day, the youngest brother said, ‘Let us dig the land to find the pot of gold coins.’

All the three brothers started digging the land. But they did not find out anything. Then one of the brothers said, ‘Let us plant some crops and start cultivation’. The other two brothers agreed. They became good farmers. They learned a valuable lesson, ‘Hard work opens the doors of success’.
